HE HAD TO SHINE FATHER'S BOOTS

Blind Man Gave Testimony in the Howard Will Case Today—An Interesting Witness.

HAD AN ABNORMAL MEMORY

Cheery Disposition of Unfortunate
Man Caused Doctor to Tell Him
His Woes and Cares.

A blind man's testimony was the interesting part of the Howard will case in the circuit court today. Daniel Enright, who was for years in Dr. Howard's office, recounted many interesting incidents in connection with his association with the eminent surgeon. Enright, like many persons deprived of one of their senses, has an abnormal faculty of remembering dates and incidents and in many cases gave the exact hour of a situation in question, that occurred years ago. He told of many of the successful operations performed by Dr. Howard, and how the surgeon tried to restore his eyesight by means of drawing leaden substance from his eyes by means of a silk thread.

Dr. Howard made a confidant of Enright, according to the man's testimony, and his cheerful disposition was a dumping ground for all the cares and troubles of the surgeon. He said that his wife (Mrs. Howard No. 1) made life miserable for him and forever kept "nagging" at him. Between her and his father, who lived with them, he said it was one continuous round of trouble. One pathetic, and yet humorous incidents related was that Dr. Howard complained he had the best Jersey cow in the county, yet he was never allowed to have one spoonful of the milk or cream that came from his own private investment. The doctor told him he was obliged to let his father's boots until he reached the age of thirty-six years. Two or three other minor witnesses took the stand in favor of the fair defendant.

FLATROCK FLOODS BANKS

Water Gradually Rising—Covering Adjoining Fields.

On account of the recent heavy rainfall, Flatrock river is out of its banks. Water is flooding the adjoining fields and is gradually rising higher.

"WHAT'S THE USE?"

"What's the use?" remarks an exchange. "If you save your money you're a tight-wad; if you spend it you're a loafer; if you get it, you're a grafter; if you don't get it you're a bum." Which ever way you turn you're up against it in the judgment of your fellow citizens.

IMPROVED SERVICE.

The change of schedule on the Lake Erie road improves the freight service for Rushville patrons as the freight from Muncie and other northern points is received here the same day it is consigned instead of twenty-four hours later.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

A marriage license was issued to Miss Olive Louise Hertsel and David E. Carmony, yesterday.

—Miss Elizabeth Graham will leave Friday evening to stay over Sunday with Miss Nelle Fultz at Terre Haute. Miss Graham and Miss Fultz were room-mates at the State Normal last summer.

AN EXPLANATION.

On account of the strenuous battle being waged by the wets and dries through our columns, it draws heavily on our space and type setting facilities. For the remainder of the week other news matter will have to suffer slightly by being curtailed.

CONFUSION COMES IN THE YES AND NO

Many of the Opinion That Ballots
Should Have Been Printed
"Wet" and "Dry."

TO GET AN INTELLIGENT VOTE

It has been said time and again that if the words "dry" and "wet" were placed on the ballots, the average voter would understand better than words "yes" and "no," but of course the latter are the proper words to use. Many inquiries are coming to the committee on this point. First and last, let it be understood that voting "yes" means voting against saloons and voting "no" is voting for them. The following notice to voters will be posted at all places:

"All votes marked with a cross in the square containing the word 'Yes' shall be counted in favor of prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage.

"All votes marked with a cross in the square containing the word 'No' shall be counted opposed to prohibiting such sale."

It is as if the question propounded were "Are you in favor of prohibiting the sale of liquors as a beverage?" The voter who is in favor of thus prohibiting the sales answers in the affirmative or "yes." If opposed to prohibiting liquor sales the answer of course is "no."

BIG SHOWS GETTING READY FOR SPRING

Big Tricks Are Making Ready For Annual Spring Opening—Will be "Grandier" Than Ever.

COME WITH THE MAY FLOWERS

The big shows of the country have made arrangements for their opening dates for the coming season. The Hagenbeck-Wallace shows will open, as usual, in Peru, on Saturday, May 1. The Ringling Bros. will open at Madison Square Garden, New York March 18. Buffalo Bill's will open at Madison Square Garden, New York, April 3. The Barnum & Bailey shows will open at the Coliseum, Chicago, about the first of April. The Sells Floto shows will open at Denver, Colo., March 9. Cole Bros. will open at Erie, Pa., April 19. The Gentry shows will open on March 27. The 101 Ranch wild west will give the initial performance of the season at Ponca City, Okla.

The Sells-Lloto shows will remain the entire week at Denver, playing under the auspices of the Strainers. The show will appear at the Coliseum. The route of the circus for the coming season has practically been decided upon. After the Denver engagement a 700-mile jump to the south will be made.

PLEAD GUILTY.

WOMEN THROWN FROM A BUGGY

Struck Another Vehicle in the Middle of a Dark Covered Bridge.

SUSTAIN SEVERE INJURIES

Miss Emma Casey Nearly Exhausted
After She Ran For Help—Now
Suffers From Trying Ordeal.

Mrs. J. M. Casey, living northeast of this city, was severely injured in an accident in the covered bridge over Flatrock, near the Smith farm, and her daughter, Miss Emma, suffered a fright which she will not soon forget, all of which happened in a most unusual manner. They were returning home, and it being late, were urging their horse to the very best speed it was capable of showing. As they started through the bridge they struck another vehicle that was standing still, upsetting their own rig. Mrs. Casey was thrown violently to the floor of the bridge and sustained bruises on the arm, face and body. As soon as they could gain their feet they demanded of the occupants of the other rig to know who they were. For answer, the other people drove away at a rapid rate.

Their horse being down on the floor and injured in the accident, Miss Casey was obliged to go for assistance while her injured mother stood guard and all attention over the prostrate animal. The younger Miss Casey succeeded in arousing some farmers who came to their assistance. She suffered more afterwards from running the long distance for aid than she did from the fractured arm she sustained.

ADDS FOUR HORSES TO HIS BIG STRING

Harrie Jones Receives a Quartette of Blooded Steeds at His Training Stables.

HAS A LONG LIST OF RACERS

During the past week Harrie Jones, the prominent local trainer, has added to his stable five very high-class horses. The first being the fast green pacer, Gulf Coast, that went a trial mile in 1908, at Columbus, Ohio, in 2:05½, with the last half in 1:01½. This horse is owned in Pennsylvania. The other four are owned at Lynchburg, Va., and are all trotters, namely, Greylet H., by Cecilian Chief, 2:27¼, dam Maybret, 2:26½, by Gambetta Wilkes; 2d dam (dam of Eyelet, 2:06½, and seven others), by Nutwood.

Van Winkle, three-year-old, by Gambetta Wilkes; 1st dam Delta, dam of Emma Offutt, 2:11¼, and seven others, by Mambrino Startle. Miss Josie Logan, three-year-old, by Cecilian Chief; 1st dam Julia Lee (dam of Dr. Bodkin, 2:18¼), by C. F. Clay; 2d dam (dam of Lee (3) 2:12¼, by Gambetta Wilkes; 3d dam, dam of Guinett, 2:05.

Blue Ridge, three-year-old, full brother to Grace Cecil, (3) 2:26¼, Cecilian Grace, 2:30, etc. The latter three are all heavily staked in the leading futurities. They all trotted miles last year from 2:20 to 2:26 as two-year-olds over half mile track.

—Miss Addie Beaver has returned from a visit with her sister, Mrs. Ora Stephens, in Shelbyville.

NO WET NEWS IN THE NEW DAILY

Published "Just Once" Under the Auspices of the County Option League.

BREAK BOTTLE ON THE BOW

But it is Pure and Distilled Water—
Elbert Hubbard is Back With the Caliope.

Elbert Hubbard of East Aurora will have to sharpen his facile pencil and wits and get busy if he wishes to keep up with the parade. The local option league issued a newspaper today, called "The Local Option News" and it is fairly teeming with bright sparkling and pointed paragraphs appropriate to their cause, and a number of news articles pertinent to the temperance question. It is all gotten up in such a clever fashion that it will, no doubt, invoke praise and commendation, even from the "sworn enemies." John A. Titworth officiated as managing editor, proof reader, make-up man and general manager of the publication of which 2500 copies were issued from the Daily Republican press today. They will be freely circulated tonight and tomorrow.

The first copy was born under most auspicious circumstances. A bottle of Kentucky distilled water, brought from near Stamping Grounds by the editor (not distilled mountain water) was broken over the "bow" of the large press as the first copy made its appearance. It will be kept as a sacred souvenir by the "One-Day Editor." It is an "Only-Once" publication.

The publication of a local option newspaper is a rather unique innovation in carrying on a campaign and as far as known, was never before attempted in a small city fight. Readers fond of county option "dope" will find a feast of good things in the county option publication.

BY THE WAYSIDE

There is one sentence in the English language that can be correctly spoken but not correctly written. Students have worried themselves sick in trying to solve its mysteries but none has succeeded.

The sentence is: "There are three twos in the English language." No! that won't do for there are the other two twos, but there we are erring again for that would leave out the too, too. In other words the three twos, that is three twos—well the three twos are the adjective, adverb and preposition so common in daily use.

It is easy enough orally to repeat the sentence but when one tries to say that there "are three twos"—but there we are stumped again. In other words the three words we refer to all spell to—but that won't do for there are two other twos, we mean two other twos.

In other words when you try to say there are two twos—ah what is the use? You know what we mean.

GREEN'S LECTURE WILL BE A CLASSIC

Speaker Comes Highly Recommended by Some of Best Educators in the Country.

SPF AKA HERE THURSDAY NIGHT

Dr. Thos. E. Green, who lectures at the St Paul's M. E. church Thursday night, comes highly recommended. He has received many testimonials and they are all that could be asked by anyone. Following is one from F. W. Gunsaulus of Chicago, Ill.:

"The lecture of Dr. Green has a masterful and noble purpose. Such messages of today, prophesy a better and a greater America tomorrow. Dr. Green is creating a loftier faith in the ideals for which republics are created."

Guy Potter Benton, president of Miami University, also gives Mr. Green a high recommendation.

THREE MEETINGS TO BE HELD TONIGHT

Drys Are Carrying Out Campaign
Program—Big Gathering at Arlington Friday Night.

ADDRESSED BY REV. W. W. KING

Three "dry" meetings will be held over the county tonight and will be addressed by local speakers. Rev. R. W. Abberley and B. F. Miller will speak to the gathering at New Salem; A. L. Gary will go to Gings station, and Rev. W. H. Clark and Rev. J. L. Cowling will go to Mays station. A. L. Gary is scheduled to make an address at Richland Thursday evening. The temperance workers in Posey township have arranged for a big meeting in Arlington at the Christian church on Friday night, which will be addressed by Rev. William Wirt King of Indianapolis.

EGG PRICES SLUMP.

That all of the eggs in Rush county are not broken today is not because they have not encountered a sufficient drop for they have dropped to twenty cents per dozen at wholesale on the local market. Most of the grocers have a uniform retail price of twenty-five cents.

MATTINGLY WILL SPEAK TONIGHT

Under the Auspices of a Business
Men's Meeting at the Kramer
Coliseum.

THE SENATOR HAS A MESSAGE

As Chairman of Committee on Public
Morals in Senate, he is Said to be Authority.

The Local Option speaking at Kramer's rink tonight promises to be a largely attended affair. While it is to be held under the auspices of the business men, ladies have been specially invited and a number of women's organizations of the city are urging their membership to attend.

A Business Men's Quartette will sing a number of selections. Lincoln Giffin will act as chairman of the meeting and it is said a majority of the substantial business men of the city will be present. Senator Mattingly, as Chairman of the Committee on Public Morals has had abundant opportunity to acquire a store of information on local option legislation and is said to be prepared to tell business men all about the conditions in the "dry towns." He is an able and logical speaker, and his appearance here will attract a good many people who are anxious to see a "leader among men," no matter what cause he represents.

WINDY MORGAN IN HOOSIER LINE UP

Rushville Catcher Will do the Receiving For the Connersville Team
This Year.

HALTERMAN ON THE MOUND

Says the Connersville News: "Charley Becker, captain of the Connersville base ball team, came up from Cincinnati yesterday to have a look at the local fans and talk over matters for the coming season with manager LaRue. "Beck" is in fine shape and is ready to get into the game. Connersville's lineup this year will be very much the same as it was last year. Halterman and Maxwell will be depended on to do the pitching, with old reliable Windy Morgan at the receiving end."

Here's Where the Fun Comes In

A most peculiar signature was found on the Windsor hotel register last night. A fellow leaning over the book first noticed it and then followed a series of deductions and round table discussions. Written in a "bold and fearless" hand was "Mary Enright and husband, Greenfield, Indiana."

"Well, that's the limit," declared the fellow who first noted it. "I never before saw a couple registered that way in the fifty years of my life."

"No use to inquire," said another, "that woman wears the trousers. That fellow would have a hard time proving that he is not hen-pecked."

"The woman may be 'Enright' but the husband is 'in-bad,'" chuckled another. The clerk caused their merry remarks to come to a sudden close and a blush of shame to come to their cheeks when he explained:

"The husband is blind, boys. That's the reason his wife registered that way." The couple was here in the Howard will case.

CURES CATARRH

Lytle's Drug Store Will Furnish the Medicine Free in Every Case Where They Fail to Cure Catarrh.

We have a medicine made from the prescription of one of the most successful catarrh specialists known. This medicine has a record of 98% of cures, and we believe it is positively without an equal. We are so satisfied that we are right, that we will supply the medicine free in every instance where it is used according to directions for a reasonable length of time and fails to cure and give satisfaction in every particular. We want everyone in Rushville to try this medicine at our risk. There are no conditions or formality attached to our offer. We put the user to no obligation to us whatever.

The medicine we want you to try is Rexall Muc-Tone. It is a catarrh remedy that goes direct to the seat of the trouble. It is carried by the blood to every part of the system. It seeks out and destroys the germs or parasites which cause catarrh. It purifies and enriches the blood, tones up the mucous cells, soothes and heals the tissues that were ravaged by the catarrhal parasite, and brings about a condition of health and strength that prevents the germs of consumption from ever getting a start. Besides this, Rexall Muc-Tone is a wonderful appetizer, digestive aid and flesh builder. Its good effects are felt from the very first dose. It is one of the largest and most satisfactory selling medicines that we have ever had anything to do with. We know so much of the great good that it has done that we personally back it up with our reputation and money, which fact should be ample guarantee to satisfy anybody.

Rexall Muc-Tone comes in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. We urge you to try it. Lytle's Drug Store, Third and Main Street.

ASKED HER TO SWEAR TO A LIE, SHE SAYS

Sensational Feature of Frank Gould Case on Trial.

New York, Feb. 24.—Charged with attempted subornation of perjury in the divorce action of Helen Kelly Gould against Frank J. Gould, Mrs. Margaret Teal, wife of Ben Teal, a theatrical producer, is on trial in the general sessions court. Mrs. Teal was jointly indicted with Mrs. Julia Fleming and Harry S. Mously, a private detective, it being alleged that they attempted to have Mabel McCauslan, a nineteen-year-old milliner, offer perjured testimony in the Gould case. Mrs. Fleming and Mously are expected to appear as witnesses against Mrs. Teal.

Miss McCauslan took the stand and testified that Mrs. Teal told her she could have $500 or $600, a trip to the country, and a theatrical position if she would testify that she had seen Mr. Gould under suspicious circumstances in Mrs. Teal's apartments at the Glenmore, which were then sublet to Bessie Devoe, an actress. The witness said she replied she could not so testify, as she had not seen any such impropriety, whereupon Mrs. Fleming, who was present, said Miss McCauslan, declared, "I did not see it, either, but I'm going to swear that I did."

Marked Improvement.
Washington, Feb. 24.—Marked improvement in business conditions in the United States at the close of the calendar year 1908, as compared with the latter part of the previous year, and in many cases a return to normal conditions, are shown by special compilations made by the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor.

Thirteen Killed in Tornado.
Marked Tree, Ark., Feb. 24.—Six persons were killed, more than a score were injured, several seriously, and practically every building in the town of Fisher was wrecked by a tornado which swept through the northwestern portion of this county. ECZEMA CURABLE? PROVEN!

Attorney at Moline, Ill., Convinced by Oil of Wintergreen Compound.

There is nothing that will convince a lawyer except evidence.

Now, here is some rather startling evidence of a simple home cure for eczema which convinced one lawyer F. C. Entriaken, attorney at Moline, Ill. He tells how oil of wintergreen compound mixed with glymol and glycerine, as in D. D. D. Prescription, cured him in thirty days after thirty-two years of suffering.

"For thirty-two years," writes Attorney Entriaken, "I was troubled with eczema, scabs all over my face, body and ead. I could run a hair brush over my body and the floor would be covered with scales enough to fill a basket. I tried everything—salves, internal medicine, X-Ray—all without result.

"Just a month ago I was induced to try D. D. D. Prescription. The itch was relieved instantly; so I continued. It is just a month now and I am completely cured. I have not a particle of itch and the scales have dropped off."

"I can only say again CURE DISCOVERED. I am now starting all eczema sufferers on the right track."

Cure after cure has been brought to our attention and always that instant relief from the awful itch.

THE RUSSIAN PEASANT.

Stupid and Poor, a Good Fellow Who Merely Exists.

The Russian peasant does not live; he merely exists. "Nitchewo" ("It is nothing"), he merely says when anything happens to him. Nothing matters, nothing could be worse, and "Nitchewo" is his panacea for all evils. And yet the Russian moujik is really a fine fellow. Ordinarily, H. P. Kennard tells us in his book, "The Russian Peasant," he is a splendid, well built man, large limbed, large headed and healthy. He is equally unaffected by 20 degrees of frost or twenty glasses of vodka. He is clothed in uncured sheepskins and carries in winter more clothes than the average Englishman could stand up in.

He is unspeakably stupid, however, and his dream of happiness is to gorge, to sleep as much as possible through the winter and dance and sing in the summer. But the stranger's first objection to the moujik is that he smells—not because he does not wash himself. As a matter of fact, in every village there are public baths—bazaars—and the peasants wash themselves there unfailingly every Saturday in order to be allowed to go to church on Sunday, for the Orthodox church enjoins cleanliness.

The Russian peasant is always poor and generally in debt. He plows the land in the same way that his father plowed it and gets as little for his labor. His main worry in life is how to pay the governor's taxes. If he says he cannot pay he is flogged, or perhaps he will sell part of his next year's power of work—i. e., work for nothing for several months—to raise a loan, and of course he is worse off than ever the following year.

On Christmas night at dusk the marriageable village girls go out into the streets and meet their young men, and one says, "What is your name?" The young man answers "Foma," and she replies, "My husband's name is Foma." Some days later at the girl's home relations are gathered together. There comes a knock at the door. The starosta and the young man enter, carrying loaves of bread. The starosta says something like this:

"We are German people, come from Turkey. We are hunters, good fellows. There was a time once in our country when we saw strange footprints in the snow, and my friend the prince here saw them, and we thought they might be a fox's or marten's footprints or it might be those of a beautiful girl. We hunters, we good fellows, are determined not to rest till we have found the animal. We have been in all cities from Germany to Turkey and have sought for this fox, this marten or this princess, and at last we have seen the same strange footprints in the snow again, here by your court. And we have come in. Come, let us take her, the beautiful princess, for we see her in front of us, or can it be that you would keep her till she grows a little older?"

Thus does the moujik ask for a wife

BUSINESS MEN SCORE A POINT

Farmer Panel Quashed by Judge Anderson.

LET US START FAIR, SAYS HE

Preponderance of Farmers on the Panel of 150 Veniremen Drawn in the Standard Oil Case at Chicago Leads Federal Court to Take Decisive Action in What He Designates "a Strange Coincidence"—Despite Protests of Government, the Jury Commissioners Are Ordered to Draw New Panel in Which Business Men Shall Be Given Chance.

Chicago, Feb. 24.—The retrial of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana was unexpectedly delayed when Judge Anderson, in the United States district court, quashed the panel of 150 veniremen because of what he considered the singularly large proportion of farmers thereon.

It was also a so-called "farmers' jury" which brought in the verdict making Judge Landis's fine of $29,240,000 in the original case possible, and John S. Miller, of the defense, was prompt in calling the court's attention to the fact that the panel then present for the new trial contained but three Chicagoans, although 60 per cent of the population within the jurisdiction of the court lives within Cook county.

"It looks like design, or if not design, it looks like a strange coincidence," commented Judge Anderson, whereupon T. C. McMillan and R. C. Jones, the jury commissioners, insisted with vigor that the latter was the case; that the panel had been drawn exactly as in other cases. This the court later admitted to be a fact.

The Government Protests.

District Attorney Sims and his special assistant, James H. Wilkerson, quoted authorities to show that all a defendant can legally claim is a fair, honest and intelligent jury to try his case. Mr. Wilkerson declared that the jury did not need to represent every portion of a judicial district. He said there was no statute to compel the jury commission to take geography or occupation into consideration.

"I don't want to start in this hearing feeling that there is something not quite fair," answered the court. "We ought to start fair and keep fair. I think this panel ought to be set aside. I will instruct the jury commission to put in 150 names of men, a good proportion of whom shall be good business men from Chicago and Cook county."

Judge Anderson is hearing argument of counsel today as to whether shipments or settlements of freight charges constitute the offense. The government will contend that each shipment of oil on which an alleged rebate was paid forms a separate violation of the law. Under this construction of the law it would be possible to fine the defendant, if found guilty, a maximum of $10,000,000. There were it is charged thirty-six settlements of freight charges on these shipments. Accepting this view, a maximum fine of $720,000 is possible. The jury commission was ordered to produce the new panel tomorrow.

"ANGEL OF CHARITY"

This Is the Name Earned by Captain John F. Klein.

Pittsburg, Feb. 24.—That there was a regular organization among councilmen, with Captain John F. Klein as the "angel of charity," and that money contributed by six banks was divided among eighty-eight members of councils, was told by Klein to Robert Wilson, who worked up the graft cases, according to the testimony of Wilson, given in the trial of Councilmen Klein, Wasson and Brand and Banker Ramsey, charged with conspiracy.

Much detailed testimony in regard to the use of money in furnishing the passage of city ordinances was given by Wilson, and to a large extent corroborated by his assistants, Herbert Jones and T. C. Huffing, who testified later.

INDIANA GOING "DRY" RAPIDLY

Five More Counties Vote to Bounce the Saloons.

NO POLITICS IN THE ISSUE

Democrats and Republicans Line Up Together Against the Demon Rum and the Decision in the Five Counties Affected by Tuesday's Election Left No Doubt of the State-Wide Feeling—Of the Eighteen Counties That Have Tried Out the Local Option Law, Wayne Is the Only One Going to the Side of the Saloons.

Indianapolis, Feb. 24.—Five more counties were voted "dry" Tuesday, making a total of eighteen that have taken advantage of the local option law. So far Wayne is the only one that has voted "wet." The counties struck by the anti-saloon landslide Tuesday are Daviess, Adams, Grant, Newton and Howard. In each the victory of the temperance forces was decisive. Women and children took an important part and made the cause of the "wets" so unpopular that in many localities only the anti-saloon side was represented on the election boards.

One hundred and forty-three saloons will be put out of business as follows by Tuesday's work, which is the greatest accomplishment the temperance forces have to their credit: Daviess, 39; Adams, 18; Grant, 57; Newton, 2; Howard, 27.

Marion "Wets" Disappointed.

The result was a foregone conclusion in favor of the "drys" in every county except Grant, in which is located Marion, Gas City, Jonesboro, Fairmont and other cities. There is a brewery at Marion and many large factories. The "wets" figured on carrying Marion and Gas City by a majority large enough to overcome the "dry" vote in the rest of the county, but they were disappointed. The "wets" had a fine organization in Marion, Kokomo and other cities, but the sentiment against them was too strong. The issue was removed from politics, so that the Democrats and Republicans lined up together against the saloon.

The "dry" majorities were about as follows: Adams, 450; Daviess, 1,325; Howard, 1,600; Grant, 1,500; Newton, 350. About 85 per cent of the total vote was polled. In Marion, Kokomo and other cities it is said that the saloon element tried to use repeaters. A number of arrests were made at Marion. At Washington the women were so thick around the voting places that they had to be dispersed by officers.

In Howard the "dry" element tried to avenge the defeat of John W. Kern for the Democratic nomination for United States senator by raising the cry that the brewers used their influence against him.

Morgan county, which is now "dry," is voting today. Elections will be held Thursday in Fountain, Hendricks and Fayette counties; in Carroll and Gibson on Friday, and in Rush on Saturday. It is expected that all will vote "dry." Three-fourths of the state is now "dry," or will be as soon as the saloons voted out are closed.

Legislative Action.

The senate committee on public morals met last night and decided to report the Tomlinson-Proctor local option repeal bill today. A majority report is for indefinite postponement.

Two reports will be submitted. One, for the indefinite postponement of the bill, will be signed by: Mattingly (Dem.), chairman; Orndorf (Rep.), Cox (Rep.), Crumpacker (Rep.), Bowers (Rep.). A minority report, favoring the passage of the bill, will be signed by: Farrell (Dem.), Patterson (Dem.).

If the ministers insist on a hearing this will probably be set for tonight, and the report of the committee will be made tomorrow, unless in the meantime Senator Proctor succeeds in having the committee instructed to report to the senate. He declared that he would offer a motion to have the committee instructed to report immediately, unless a report is made without such action.

Senator Orndorf, while he opposes the bill in its present form, might, he has said, vote for it if certain amendments are made, and his action in signing the majority report against the bill is not taken as finally indicating his position.

Appropriation Bills Killed.

The ways and means committee of the house killed a number of bills carrying appropriations. Among the number was the Rogen bill providing an appropriation of $30,000 for the erection of an armory for Battery B, field artillery, Indiana national guard.

Another was the Seidensticker bill providing for an appropriation of $10,400 for the Industrial Home for the Blind in Indianapolis.

The Williams bill providing for the payment of the surviving members of the Home Guards who did military service along the Ohio river during the civil war, also was killed.

Another bill which the committee decided to recommend for indefinite postponement was the Seidensticker bill making it unlawful to sell prison-made goods.

Spaniards' Taste in Reading.
The librarian selected a book entitled "Farming in the Ohio Valley." "Will you give this to that young man waiting at the desk?" she said to an assistant. "He is a Spanish student learning to read English, and I think this will suit him."
"That sounds like a very unpromising subject for a student in English to tackle," a friend remarked.
"It would be uninteresting to anybody but a Spanish student," said the librarian, "but the Spaniards run to farming literature. When training beginners in English of any other nationality something sprightly in the way of fiction or travel usually is recommended. But not to the Spaniard. Nine times out of ten it is a work on agriculture that he will make the best progress in."—New York Press.

Had to Bow to Custom.

The late King Oscar of Sweden was the least conventional of monarchs, but he had to courtesy to custom nevertheless. The king and M. Bonnier, the botanist, met as strangers while out in search of flowers near Stockholm. They were soon the best of friends, and Bonnier suggested lunch at his inn.

"Come home with me instead," said the other.

When the way led to the palace gates Bonnier hesitated.
"I'm sorry," said his companion, "but I happen to be the king of this country, and this is the only place where I can entertain my friends."

Teeth Chatter.

The Gold Tooth—Say, you'll be pulled if you keep on disturbing the peace.
The Troublesome Molar—Hooray! I'm just aching to get out of here, you know.—Puck.

The Better Part.

A delightful little story is told of Prosper Merimee, the French author. He was once guest at a royal hunt, when hares, pheasants and other game were driven before the emperor and his followers, and the servants picked up the victims of the sport.

Among all the members of the hunting party Prosper Merimee alone had no trophy to display.

"How does this happen?" asked some one.

"Where game is so plenty the merit of a marksman seems to me to lie in hitting nothing," replied Merimee, with grave courtesy, "so I fired between the birds."

Walters on Horseback.

In great French houses of days gone by dinner was announced by the blowing of hunting horns, and it is on record that at certain gala feasts the dishes were brought in by servants in full armor mounted upon caparisoned horses, a practice we could only look for during the reign of chivalry. Of the attendants at dinner the carver and server took precedence over all the others. They stood probably on each side of their lord. The server, it may be mentioned, was the officer who placed the dishes on the table.

FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE

The Angel of the Crimea

In her home in the West End of London, passing the days of the late Autumn of her life in an invalid chair, lives a white-haired, sweet-faced, kindly-voiced noble woman, whom the world knows as Florence Nightingale. Born in 1820 in Florence, Italy, the daughter of a wealthy Englishman, under his loving tutelage she mastered the classics and literature, became a good musician and learned several languages.

She had a genius for helpfulness, a consecration to humanity that found expression in sweet ministrations of love and care of the sick and suffering. In nursing she saw a noble career for women and in 1849 went to a Protestant school for nurses, on the Rhine. On her return to England she assumed management of a sanitarium for invalid governesses. In 1854 England was roused to a white heat of indignation by the revelations of the horrors of the hospital service of the Crimea. Government incompetency, imbecile red tape, rascally dishonesty and criminal neglect in treating the sick and wounded soldiers made mere war itself a paradise of mercy by contrast. Dante's Inferno seemed a mild bit of imagination in the face of the real horrors at Scutari, with four miles of beds huddled in one three-story house.

Florence Nightingale volunteered to lead a band of women to transform the hospitals in the name of humanity, and in November, 1854, with thirty-eight nurses she reached Scutari. Her magic touch brought order out of chaos; the sunshine, sweetness and soothing peace of woman's work filled the rooms; the ghastly mortality was reduced to a minimum; soldiers wounded and dying kissed the shadow of the angel of the Crimea as it fell across their counterpanes or reverently touched the hem of her garment as she passed near them. Often for twenty hours at a stretch she stood giving her orders—the noble leader of her little army of peace; and her kindness, wisdom, sweetness, energy, influence and inspiration seemed inexhaustible.

For two years she kept up the fight and with health impaired returned to England, shunning all publicity. The $50,000 testimonial tendered her by the people, she refused, but finally accepted to found a training school for nurses. By penny subscriptions the soldiers secured enough to erect a statue to her memory, but this, too, she rejected. For nearly fifty years she has been an invalid, and yet this "Grand Old Woman of England," at the age of eighty-seven is still serene, sweet, helpful and contented, with a name that will be hallowed as long as the British army and the British nation shall endure.

PEOPLES COLUMN

The Business Man and the Saloon.

Editor Republican:

It is hard to see how any business man can be so blind to his own interests on this question, as not to see the right side of it. Of all the men in the world the business man and the heavy taxpayer can best afford to have saloons in their town. Take Rushville for instance. There is at least $100,000 that passes through the saloons each year, and as far as helping the other business of the town is concerned this money had all about as well be burned. Of course the trade of the men directly engaged in the saloon business amounts to something. But a factory that did not employ more men than the saloons do in Rushville would not be thought worth making a very great effort to secure.

Why is it that business men will make a special effort to get the factory trade, and try to induce more factories to come here and then not make any effort to secure for legitimate business this $100,000 or more that is every year worse than wasted in Rushville. If this great waste is stopped every legitimate business cannot help but be benefited thereby.

Evidence of this is continually filling up at all the different places where it has been tried long enough for business to become adjusted. And now to talk of investigating farther, what ought to be a self-evident fact to any fair minded man, is little better than a farce.

The business man says, or rather a few of them do, I can't afford to take up this question, for if I did, it would make some of the saloon people mad and I would lose trade. Let me ask, Mr. business man, that you seriously consider whose trade is worth the most, that of the saloon people or the great majority on the other side who constitute the very best people in Rush county.

AMOS BLACKLIDGE

Prohibition and Republicanism Will Mix "Out of Political Season."

Editor Republican:

While some would have one think they are entitled to an opinion nowaday, unless they are in the same thought wave territory where they live, and that to give expression, when you mingle with the minority, that you are absolutely wrong and guilty of high treason; still the flag waves occasionally here in the land of the free. I am against county option in State politics, for I have seen the evil effects of touching the live wire and have seen one good man after another go down to defeat carrying the banner of Prohibition. The people will not support it at the polls—those very self-same people who holler themselves hoarse and red in the face and throw their hats up towards the stars during the closed season.

The question is in politics, and when we have witnessed one State after another turned upside down politically by tampering with the issue and following the beckon of that grim spectacle of death—Prohibition—it behooves any honest Republican to do all in his power to have his party sidestep it and do so at the earliest convenience.

There is another thing to consider. When the Republican party goes down to defeat, along with it go some of the things we have fought for year after year. Grant that the moral side of it is enough to attract one, then let him consider that for his party to champion this one issue it must sacrifice and bow before Democratic rule and all the evils they administer, once they have the reins. We must have free trade, tampering with the money system, maybe free silver and government ownership of railroads, general depression of business and the many evils the Democrats are wont to foist upon us. They gain power. The Democrats have the reputation of giving us administrations that are free, lax and easy, as far as public morals are concerned. We even have had prize fighting revived since a Democratic governor took office in this State. Everything we consider sacred must be sacrificed for one cause—a losing cause. If there is anyone who can show you where either the Democrats or Republicans were ever successful twice in succession when they had espoused the cause of prohibition, you can point to them where the parties went down to defeat thirty times with such a tail to their kite.

From those who will feel inclined to give credit for the county option movement in Rush county, who will they give it to? There is just one class, one political party that rightfully deserves the credit, and that is the Prohibitionists. Mrs. Laura B. Leonard, who was the Prohibitionist county chairman in Rush county, was the first one to start the ball a rolling. She told about it recently at the Fayette county Prohibitionist meeting and a report of the meeting was published in the newspapers there. She said she called at the office of A. L. Gary in Rushville and told him, that as a young lawyer without practice, he had an elegant opportunity to make a name for himself by starting the county option movement. He did start it. He was the first to prepare a petition and has since been active in the work. A number of prominent Republicans declared all along they would have nothing to do with it, but many of them joined in afterwards. Who will get the credit for the movement? Who deserves the credit? Who will reap the benefits? To the last question there can be but one answer—the Democrats, at the next election.

In England they have threshed out the liquor question for two thousand years and concluded long ago that coffee shops and rum stores were best conducted under high license and close restrictions.

Once the Prohibition fanatics would have their fantastic dreams realized, they will go farther. One does not have to go further than the chairman of the finance committee in the present county option in this city—and I say it in the highest regard for the man, for I believe he is honest in his stand, and I, first of all, respect any man's opinion when I believe him sincere. Charles Alger is who I refer to. I do not know whether or not he supported Watson during the last campaign when that gentleman stood for county option, but this I do know, he was not near as active, one way or another, as he is now.

WHY? Of course he is a good Christian gentleman, and as a free American citizen has a right to his opinion and may make it public by either word or act. But this is the point I wish to make: I have it from good authority—and from equally as honorable a gentleman as Alger—that he told a number of people living in this city, something after the following: "Just as soon as we get through with this liquor question we are going after the users of tobacco and put a stop to chewing tobacco and smoking cigars in this country." All of which he has a right to say, but don't you think it a rather radical statement. It may be right when simmered down and might be proven to be a destroyer of health and a great drain to men's pocket-books. But don't you see where such things lead to? They would next stop pool rooms, bowling alleys, ball games, tidily-winks and jack straws and even music in the churches, for some of them argue it is a dissipation. I admit the saloon is an evil. Anyone that can talk a lick can get up and make a better speech on temperance than on any other subject (and I might add here that I am not a drinking man) but on the other hand, I cannot believe, after making an exhaustive search of reliable data on the question, that prohibition is not practical. I rather think with Lincoln that prohibition will lead to intemperance and is in itself, intemperance. If prohibition is so "down-founded" right why have we not been voting the ticket? We knew as much about the saloon evil ten years ago as we know now. Why have we not, for the sake of the great moral influence it yields, voted the straight Prohi ticket? It was a losing cause and they had no chance, you may say! No, but isn't the principle right? You haven't voted against your principle, have you, Mr. Republican? But you say they did not stand for so many other things that the Republicans advocated. That's it exactly. So now you will lend your voice to a movement that will mean the total extermination of all those dear and precious things the County Local Option Discussion.

A Word to the Mothers!

(FROM THE RICHMOND ITEM.)

The Item hopes for the good of the city's morals and clean politics that the women of Richmond will not permit themselves to be stampeded into lending their support to driving out law-abiding, well-regulated saloons that are selling liquor in the open and conducting orderly places where neither minors nor women are allowed, and driving the law-violating blind tigers, dives and joints, where no pretense is made of being orderly, where liquor is not only sold to all who want it, but "runners" are sent out to toll the boys and girls and ply them with liquor as a prelude to worse crimes!

The women of this city rallied to the support of civic decency three years ago and put a stop to debauchery that was going on. Will they now stop to think that the evils they then fought were the evils of the ILLICIT liquor traffic—the evils of saloons that kept open on Sundays, and all night, the evils of such saloons as that of Hazzard's in the north end, and the evils of wine rooms, houses of prostitution, and the like.

Bear in mind that since that fight the saloons have been obeying the law and the social vices have been reduced to a minimum. Bear in mind that the only places in this city in the past two years where boys could get liquor and did get liquor, were the two or three "blind tigers" which up to date have escaped conviction, and which will not be affected in the least by voting out the saloons! Bear in mind that police records of all cities indisputably prove that where liquor is sold by blind tigers, dives, holes-in-the-wall, blind pigs, dumps and joints, as these places are variously called, that vice and crime not only increase, but that it is harder to detect, trace to its sources and stamp out!

And bear this in mind! So long as the saloons of this city are permitted to continue in business with local option law hanging over their heads as a restraining and coercive influence, saying to them that the minute they violate the law, or violate the standards of a decently run saloon, or dabble into politics, the law will be put in operation and they will be driven out of business, so long will we have a firm control of the liquor traffic and will have its evils reduced to a minimum, and especially will we have the liquor influence out of politics. Vote out these saloons, and you will have done your worst. The election is February 5! All saloons have ninety days from that date in which to run. They will no longer be held in restraint from fear of the law. During these ninety days we will have another city campaign, the winners in which will govern this city for four years from January 1, 1910. Already the same forces, the same evils, which the women of this city helped to drive from public office and power are marshalling their forces to regain control. The hope of Zim-mermanism, and all that it implies, lies in the victory of the "drys." The hope of the forces of disorder and open vice for four years of control of this city rests in the success of the extremists who would vote out saloons and leave in the liquor traffic! The "wide open" town forces will revenge and get it speedily if the saloons are voted out. And who can blame them? If the extra good citizens now "get even" with the law-abiding saloons by confiscating their property and turning their business over to the blind tigers, who can blame the saloon forces if they "get even" by bequeathing as their last legacy, a return of Machine politics to this city?

If saloons are not voted out now, they can be at any future time! Remember that! The failure to vote out saloons now does not preclude another election being called at any time. The saloons know this, too. And if they should be permitted to remain in business they will realize that it is only during their good behavior, and their refusal to meddle in politics. They will take it as a notice from the voters that so long as they conduct their business uprightly and lawfully, and so long as they attend to their business and do not attempt to dictate politics, they will be permitted to remain in business, but no longer!

By voting "wet" the people do not give up the law which is the coercive power for good! By voting "dry" they have fired all their ammunition and are helpless.

The women of this city should hesitate before they vote out saloons, vote in blind tigers and dives, and also vote in a city administration which will for four years protect these blind tigers and dives! Better hold to what you have, until you can get something better! Better keep the saloons and the law to regulate them than to get notorious places you have no law to regulate! Better have the liquor traffic open and above board and under strict control, than to have it sold under the worst possible conditions and beyond control! Better make haste slowly in good government!

Republicans have fought for years to maintain. History proves, beyond any contradiction, that the people will not tolerate prohibition when they come to their senses. You are unconsciously planting the kiss of a Judas Iscariot upon the face of your party by selling your feelings, under the spell of a magic sentimentalist, for thirteen pieces of silver oratory. A ha! but some will say, you are not consistent if you declare that something you fought for in a losing battle, is not proper: it was in your platform, is a Republican measure, and to be consistent, you must stand by it. One could recount hundreds of mistakes made by both Moses and the Republican party, but let us just take one instance that is still fresh in the minds of all. Remember that famous (or infamous) ditch law the Republicans put on the statute books? Better yet do you remember the howl that went up from those interested—and who suffered. Was you one that hummed and hawed around and declared it was right, and you stood by it because it was a party measure? If you did, I'll bet your ears burned. You will say that a majority favored its repeal, while in this instance the people of Indiana forcibly demonstrate how they stand on county option by their ballots in the wet and dry elections. Yes, but when election day comes around again, when the sacred doctrines and principles of the Republican party are at stake, you will see how they will vote. I call to witness the recent election in Marshall county. A Democrat ran on a platform to go to Indianapolis and vote to repeal the county option law; a Republican made speeches and statements in the newspapers that he was opposed to repealing the law and would never vote that way. The Democrat was elected by an increased majority of 689, or the largest majority a Democrat ever got in that county. I do not want to be a prophet of calamity or "I-Told-You-So," but if the law is not repealed, watch the returns of the next State election in Indiana.

The Marshall county election result will be the story of a State-wide election.

A TRUE REPUBLICAN.

The Right Spirit.

Editor of Republican:

I was talking with a man the other day who made the remark: "I like a glass of beer once in awhile, but I will vote it dry." Perhaps, said he "I have taken a half dozen glasses of beer in the last year, but I would have been just as well off without it, and for the sake of my country and for the good of the fellow who hasn't strength of character enough to keep from drinking more than he should, I will vote it dry, and help to put temptation out of the way of the man who needs a helping hand to keep him from going to a drunkard's grave."

Surely this is the right Christian spirit, and is much in contrast to the man who says he will vote it wet for spite because he got "stung" at the time of the last election. A. B.

MY POLICY

I have conducted a drug store for the past twenty-three years and always sold liquor in a legitimate way, believing that the man that paid the license to sell it was the one to sell it. Since I have been in Rushville the profits on my liquor sales has barely paid my Government license of $25.00 a year. I have always endeavored and shall continue to conduct a REAL LIVE LEGITIMATE DRUG STORE where quality is unquestionable and honest methods and prices prevail

From this day forth there will be one Drug Store in the City of Rushville
That Will Not Sell Liquor of Any Kind
That Store is
WOLCOTT'S DRUG STORE

My OPINION always was that the whiskey drug store is worse than the saloon and ruined the standing of the legitimate druggist and the sooner it was eliminated from the business the better for the legitimate druggist

Law and Enforcement.

Editor of Republican:

As I believe in LAW and the ENFORCEMENT of the same where possible and if not possible to enforce, I favor repeal at the earliest possible moment. Therefore I also oppose making laws or bringing about conditions under laws that experience has taught us can not be enforced, such as voting counties dry under county option.

I wish to call your attention to an editorial appearing in the Indianapolis Star Saturday, Feb. 20, 1909, referring to the stand taken by Rev. Dr. Parkhurst of New York, the most widely known reformer of this country:

"Much to the surprise of the advocates of the 'old-fashioned Sunday' and to the gratification of the German-American Alliance in New York, which is trying to secure more liberal Sunday laws, the Rev. Dr. Parkhurst, who has figured actively in many reform movements, expresses a measure of sympathy with the latter attempt. He is out in a letter recommending a repeal of all laws that can not be enforced. The present Sunday laws are considered a joke, he says, and adds that their present nonenforcement with general consent has a most demoralizing effect upon the community. 'The city,' he continues, 'would breathe a purer, healthier air if laws were passed that would legalize some of the things that are now held to be illegal. I am of the opinion that a little more liberality should be permitted, so we would have Sunday conditions satisfactory to the general public of the city.' Dr. Parkhurst is evidently aware that people can not be made good by law and is broad enough to see that a changed public sentiment in regard to certain Sunday observances does not necessarily imply iniquity or a lowering of moral standards."

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Kennedy entertained a number of friends yesterday evening, honoring their guest, Mrs. Roy Barrett of Knoxville, Tenn. The guests were all graduates of Earlham college, as was the host and the honored guest.

Original and unique certainly were the costumes which were seen at the Coterie on Tuesday afternoon, when Mrs. George Pantenney entertained at the home of Mrs. Smelser. The hostess read a sketch of George Washington's life and then the members enlarged upon certain periods of his career, not always adhering strictly to authentic accounts. George himself was present as he would have been as the twentieth century young man and as a soldier in our last war. Martha, with powdered hair; several colonial dames, one of whom confessed she had climbed the family tree of the Coterie, searching for proofs of their eligibility to the Colonial Dames and D. A. R.; Redjacket and a squaw; a reader of rare genius who interpreted an original poem most charmingly; and even the Goddess of Liberty herself were among those present. Redjacket was presented an American flag in appreciation of the impassional speech he delivered. Miss Anna Ross of Richmond was a guest, and contributed not a little to the pleasure of the day by her piano selections. Mrs. Pierson will have the Coterie with her at Mrs. Smelser's on March 8.

GOOD BUSINESS.

The Thrifty Young Man Found a Profitable Investment.

A millionaire, hoping to encourage his young son in ways of thrift, promised to give him 2 per cent a month interest upon any money that he might save out of his allowance and deposit in the paternal treasury. The young man was getting $5 a week for pocket money and promised to show his appreciation of his father's affectionate offer. He began to make deposits without delay and kept the practice up with remarkable regularity.

The old gentleman noticed presently that the deposits exceeded the whole of the boy's allowance, but accounted for this by supposing that he had saved some money previously. Besides this, he received money frequently from his mother. So the fond parent rejoiced in the saving disposition that his son was displaying.

This continued until the boy's deposits assumed such dimensions as to demand an explanation. It then turned out that most of the money he had been depositing had been borrowed. Inasmuch as he was drawing interest on his deposits at 2 per cent per month and was paying only 10 per cent per year for them he had found the business decidedly attractive and profitable.

father's age, for his hair and brows were grizzled, and his face had the look of a man of sixty, while only those who knew him well, like Doret, were aware of his great strength and the endurance that belied his appearance.

"We will send Necia down to the mission tonight and let Father Barnum keep her there till this man goes," said the squaw after some deliberation.

"No; she must stay here," Gale replied, with decision. "The man has come here to live, so it won't do any good to send her away, and after all, what is to be will be. But she must never be seen in that dance girl's dress again, at least not till I learn more about this Stark. It makes no difference whether this one is the man or not. He will come, and I shall know him. For a year I have felt that the time was growing short, and now I know it."

"No, no!" Alluna cried. "We have no strangers here. No white men except the soldiers and this one have come in a year. This is but a little trading post."

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets—coaxes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasantly delightful. Gently though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure. If it's painful periods with womb, same cause. If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Bruse your finger and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

monplace, and even his sister, whom till now he had held as the perfection of all things feminine, suffered by comparison with this maiden of the frontier.

He was steeped in this sweet, grave melancholy when a knock came at his door, and he arose to find Necia herself there, excited and radiant. She came in without sign of embarrassment or slightest consciousness of the possible impropriety of her act.

"The most wonderful thing has happened," she began at once when she found they were alone. "You'll faint for joy."

"What is it?"

"Lee has made a strike—a wonderful strike—richer than the Klondike. I came as fast as I could, because tomorrow everybody will know about it, and it will be too late."

"Too late for what?"

"For us to get in on it, of course. Oh, but won't there be a stampedale! Why, all the people bound for Dawson on the next boat will pile off here. Then the news will go up river and down river, and thousands of others will come pouring in from everywhere, and this will be a city. Then we will stake our town lots and sell them for ever so much money and go around with our noses in the air."

"Hold on! Hold on!" said the soldier, stopping her breathless patter. "Tell me all about this."

"Well, 'No Creek' came in this morning to tell dad and Poleon. Then the boat arrived with an old friend of Lee's, a Mr. Stark, so Lee told him, too, and now they're all gone back to his creek to stake more claims. They slipped away quietly to prevent suspicion, but I knew there was something up from the way Poleon acted, so I made Alluna tell me all about it. They haven't more than two hours' start of us, and we can overtake them easily."

"Well, why are we not going?"

"Yes, we are," she insisted impatiently. "You and I. That's why I came, so you can get a mine for yourself and be a rich man, and so you can help me get one. I know the way. Hurry up!"

"No," said he in as firm a tone as he could command. "In the first place, these men don't like me, and they don't want me to share in this."

"What do you care?"

"In the second place, I'm not a miner. I don't know how to proceed."

"Never mind. I do. I've heard nothing but mining all my life."

"In the third place, I don't think I have the right, for I'm a soldier. I'm working for Uncle Sam, and I don't believe I ought to take up mining claims. I'm not sure there is anything to prevent it, but neither am I sure it would be quite the square thing. Are you?"

"Why, of course it's all right," said Necia, her eager face clouding with the look of a hurt child. "If you don't do it somebody else will."

But the lieutenant shook his head. "Maybe I'm foolish, but I can't see my way clear, much as I would like to."

"Oh, dear, oh, dear!" she exclaimed brokenly. "I do so want to go. I want you to be rich, and I want to be rich myself. I want to be a fine lady and go outside and live like other girls."

Why, it means heaven to a girl like me! Her eyes were wet with the sudden dashing of her hopes, and her chin quivered in a sweet, girlish way that made the youth almost surrender on the instant.

"We couldn't possibly overtake them if we tried," he said, as if willing to treat with his conscience.

"No, but we could beat them in. I know where Lee is working, for I went up last winter with Constantine and his dog team over a short cut by way of Black Bear creek. You see, his creek makes a great bend to the southward and heads back toward the river, so by crossing the divide at the source of Black Bear you drop into it a few miles above his cabin."

While she made this appeal Burrell fought with himself. There were reasons why he longed to take this trip more than he had longed for anything since boyhood. These men of Flambeau had disregarded him and insisted on treating him with contemptuous distrust despite his repeated friendly overtures, wherefore he was hungry to beat them at their own game, hungry to thrust himself ahead of them and compel them to reckon with him as an equal, preferring a state of open enmity if necessary to this condition of indifferent toleration. Moreover, he knew that Necia was coveted by half of them, and if he spent a night in the woods alone with her it would stir them up a bit, he fancied. By heaven, that would make them sit up and notice him! But, then, it might work a wrong upon her. And yet would it? He was not so sure that it would. She had come to him, she was old enough

When Burrell returned to his quarters he tried to mitigate the feeling of loneliness that oppressed him by tackling his neglected correspondence. Somehow today the sense of his isolation had come over him stronger than ever. His rank forbade any intimacy with his miserable handful of men, who had already fallen into the monotony of routine, while every friendly overture he made toward the citizens of Flambeau was met with distrust and coldness, his stripes of office seeming to erect a barrier and induce an ostracism stronger and more complete than if they had been emblems of the penitentiary. Even Doret and the trader seemed to share the general feeling; hence the thought of the long, lonesome winter approaching reduced the lieutenant to a state of black despondency, deepened by the knowledge that he now had an open enemy in camp in the person of Runnion. Then, too, he had taken a morbid dislike to the new man, Stark. So that all in all the youth felt he had good reason to be in the dumps this afternoon. There was nothing desirable in this place—everything undesirable—except Necia. Her presence in Flambeau went far toward making his humdrum existence bearable, but of late he had found himself dwelling with growing seriousness on the unhappy circumstances of her birth and had almost made up his mind that it would be wise not to see her any more. The tempting vision of her in the ball dress remained vividly in his imagination, causing him hours of sweet torment. There was a sparkle, a fineness, a gentleness, about her that seemed to make the few women he had known well dull and com-

To know her mind, and she was but a half breed girl, after all, who doubtless was not so simple as she seemed. Other men had no such scruples in this or any other land, and yet the young man hesitated until, encouraged by his silence, the girl came forward and spoke again impulsively:

"Don't be silly, Mr. Burrell. Come! Please come with me, won't you?"

She took him by the edges of his coat and drew him to her coaxingly. It may have been partly the spirit of revolt that had been growing in him all day, or it may have been wholly the sense of her there beside him, warm and pleading, but something caused a great wave to surge up through his veins, caused him to take her in his arms, fiercely kissing her upturned face again and again, crying softly, deep down in his throat:

"Yes, yes, yes! You little witch! I'll go anywhere with you! Anywhere! Anywhere!"

The impulse was blind and ungovernable, and it grew as his lips met hers, while, strangely enough, she made no resistance, yielding herself quietly till he found her arms wound softly about his neck and her face nestling close to his. Neither of them knew how long they stood thus blended together, but soon he grew conscious of the beating of her heart against his breast as she lay there like a little fluttering bird and felt the throbbing of his own heart swaying him. Her arms, her lips and her whole body clung to his in a sweet surrender, and yet there was nothing immodest or unmanly about it, for his strength and ardor had lifted her and drawn her to him as on the sweep of a great wave.

She drew her face free and hid it against his neck, breathing softly and with shy timidity, as if the sound of the words she whispered half frightened her.

"I love you. I love you, Meade."

It may happen that a man will spend months in friendly and charming intimacy with a woman and never feel the violence or tenderness of passion till there comes a psychic moment or a physical touch that suddenly inwraps them like a flame. So it was with Burrell. The sweet burden of this girl in his arms, the sense of her yielding lips, the warmth of her caressing hands, momentarily unleashed a leaping pack of mad desires, and it was she who finally drew herself away to remind him smilingly that he was wasting time.

"My lips will be here when those mines are worked out," she said. "No, no!" And she held him off as he came toward her again, insisting that if they were going they must be off at once and that he could have no more kisses for the present. "But, of course, it is a long trip, and we will have to sit down now and then to rest," she added shyly, at which he vowed that he was far from strong and could not walk but a little way at a time, yet, even so, he declared, the trail would be too short, even though it led to Canada.

"Then get your pack made up," she ordered, "for we must be well up toward the head of Black Bear creek before it grows dark enough to camp."

Swiftly he made his preparations. A madness was upon him now, and he took no pains to check or analyze the reasons for his decision. The thought of her loveliness in his arms once more far up among the perfumed wooded heights as the silent darkness stole upon them stirred in him such a fret to be gone that it was like a fever. He slipped away to the barracks with instructions for his corporal, but was back again in a moment. Finally he took up his burden of blanket and food, then said to her:

"Well, are you ready, little one?"

"Yes, Meade," she answered simply.

"And you are sure you won't regret it?"

"Not while you love me."

He kissed her again before they stepped out on the river trail that wound along the bank.

Two hours later they paused where the foaming waters of Black Bear creek roiled down across a gravelled bar and into the silent, sweeping river, standing at the entrance to a wooded, grass grown valley, with rolling hills and domes displayed at its head, while back of them lay the town, six miles away, its low, squat buildings tiny and toylke, but distinctly silhouetted against the evening sky.

"Is it not time to rest?" said the soldier laughingly, yet with a look of yearning in his misty eyes as he took the girlish figure in his arms. But she only smiled up at him and, releasing his hold, led the way into the forest.

Read what Rushville people say who have been cured by Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. Earnest Carpenter, 919 North Sexton street, Rushville, Ind., says: "My little boy's kidneys were weak and he could not control the secretions. This trouble had clung to him for some time and I was afraid it could not be removed, as the doctor had not succeeded in checking it. The child was very delicate, had a bad complexion and numerous other symptoms of unhealthy kidneys. I learned that Doan's Kidney Pills had cured many children of such troubles and I procured them at F. B. Johnson & Co.'s drug store. They soon checked the trouble. The child has a better appetite now, the color in his face is returning, his kidneys are becoming stronger and there is a general improvement in his condition."

You Can't Make a Mistake On X-Ray Incubators

The Only Real Invention for Many Years in Chicken Raising

The X-Ray has no equal because it is not built on the worn-out theories of other incubators—it's entirely different and better. Don't take chances in ordering other incubators on low price promises or risk getting any incubator until you send us your name and address for our new Free Practical X-Ray Incubator Book that explains why you'll hatch more chicks—easier—at less expense for oil and time. We prove to you by 60 Days' Trial how far easier the X-Ray incubator is to use and to hatch than any other. Lamp underneath where it should be—out to one side as in all others—doesn't waste heat—flame automatically regulated—one filling of lamp makes entire hatch—all others filled daily—saves ½ expense on oil and time alone. The X-Ray has a glass top—don't have to open door to see thermometer—everything right in sight—outside indicator don't have to handle egg tray—simply lift glass lid to turn eggs. We'll send you the book free—no guesswork and risk of spoiling eggs—entirely different from all others—easier and cleaner to run—built the only sensible way—the only safe and sure incubator to use—one that hatches the largest number of strong, healthy chicks with little time and bother.

Just write us now for FREE BOOK on X-Ray Incubators

If you'll give us a chance we'll prove to either beginner or experienced poultry raiser why the famous X-Ray Tubes are the only perfect heating and ventilating system supplying warm, fresh air at an even temperature to every part of egg chamber—why the X-Ray Self Regulating Device is positively Fool Proof—prevents mistakes and actually takes care of itself. You'll know how perfectly an X-Ray works and what big hatch it produces after 60 Days' Trial. You cannot fail to notice the perfect construction, superior workmanship and high-grade finish of every part of the X-Ray Complete California Record. HERRICK ELIMINATED

Ohlean Out of Treasuryship Gossip by His Own Request.

New York, Feb. 24.—Ex-Governor Myron T. Herrick will not be secretary of the treasury in the Taft cabinet. This fact is set forth in a statement given out by Mr. Taft after a lengthy conference with Mr. Herrick. The elimination of Mr. Herrick at his own request would seem to put Franklin MacVeagh of Chicago in the lead for the place, but Mr. Taft said it would be several days yet before the matter would be settled.

THREATENING FLOOD CONDITIONS PREVAIL

Kentucky and Southern Indiana
Have Too Much Rain.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 24.—Storm and flood conditions throughout Kentucky and especially in Louisville and vicinity, have in many instances caused a suspension of business, an interruption to transportation by rail routes, much damage to property, and has caused people to flee for their lives and work to save their property. Rain fell in torrents over a territory extending from central Indiana south through Kentucky and into Tennessee and central Georgia, but the storm was the severest in the blue grass state. The Kentucky river, swollen by heavy rains in the mountains, is pouring a volume of water past Frankfort, which is expected to increase the rise in the Ohio when it strikes that stream at Carrollton. Many bridges in central Kentucky have been carried away and much livestock lost.

In southern Indiana all streams are rising and the Ohio is above the flood stage at Evansville. Near Carmi, Ill., a Big Four freight went into a wash-out, a brakeman being killed and the conductor injured.

COL. COOPER ON STAND

Aged Defendant in Carmack Case
Giving Testimony.

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 24.—The sixth day of actual testimony in the case of Colonel Duncan B. Cooper and Robin J. Cooper and John D. Sharp, charged with the murder of former Senator E. W. Carmack, closed with the aged defendant Colonel Cooper, still on the witness stand. His own counsel were questioning him, and when court adjourned they intimated that they were about half through. That the state will grill Colonel Cooper on cross-examination to the limit of counsel's ability, goes without saying.

MRS ANDERSON

Tells How After Giving up Hope, She Was Cured of Dandruff.

After reading this straightforward statement of Mrs. Elizabeth E. Anderson, of Mechanicsburg, Pa., go to F. B. Johnson & Co.'s get a large bottle of Parisian Sage for only 50 cents, and if it don't do for you, what it did for Mrs. Anderson, they will give you your money back. Just read this letter, it's worth your while:

"I had given up hope of ever being cured of dandruff, when I purchased a bottle of Parisian Sage. It has entirely removed the dandruff, and has started a growth of new hair, and all this after having been troubled for 15 years. I cheerfully recommend Parisian Sage."

Parisian Sage cures dandruff, because it gets right down into the roots of the hair and kills the thousands of pernicious dandruff germs.

Since the introduction of Parisian Sage into America, it has been in demand by thousands of up-to-date society women. Parisian Sage will turn harsh, lusterless, ill looking hair into bright, luxuriant hair in a few days. It is a delightful and invigorating dressing, contains no dye or harmful ingredients and is not sticky or greasy. The girl with the Auburn hair is on every package.

INDIANA POLITICS

ROBERT G. TUCKER.

Indianapolis, Feb. 24.—Governor Marshall sent another message to the legislature calling its attention again to the shortage of funds in the state treasury and warning the legislators that "charity begins at home." His message caused the members who are pushing appropriation bills to "sit up and take notice," as he not only presented his own views, but a statement from Auditor Billheimer showing the state's financial resources. The governor declared that to contract a debt is one thing, but that to pay it is another. He called attention to the tax rate, saying that while the people, outside the cities and towns, are now paying about $2 tax on the hundred, that only 33.6 cents goes to the state. The governor said that he had hoped that the legislature would be conservative in its appropriations that the tax levy could be reduced and that he is now concerned lest appropriations be made that cannot be met. After giving figures relating to the state's obligations, Governor Marshall said: "The problem now confronting you is this: Is it your purpose to increase the taxes of the people of Indiana, or will you seriously consider these figures and be extremely careful in making your appropriations?" The governor called attention to a bill introduced by Representative King to increase the educational tax from 2 1/2 cents to 4 cents on the hundred for the benefit of Indiana and Purdue universities and the state normal school. This bill has passed the house. The governor said that education is a good thing, but he insisted that it is not proper that taxes shall be raised for the state educational institutions to pay for educating pupils who do not reside in Indiana. He showed that 984, or 19 per cent, of the students at Indiana, Purdue and state normal, reside outside of Indiana, and that the state pays at least $100,000 annually for their education. He insists that it is unfair that the state should bear this extra burden. The message was referred to the ways and means committee of the house and the finance committee of the senate. The governor says that he is very much in earnest in presenting the state's financial condition to the legislature.

As a result of Governor Marshall's message of disapproval of the passage of the King bill to increase the tax levy for state educational institutions from 2 1/2 cents to 4 cents, the house reconsidered and killed the bill. A message was sent to the senate asking that the bill be returned to the house. The senate declined, more, it seems, to leave the house in a sweat than because of any intention to pass the measure, there being a strong probability that it will die in the senate if the Democratic members stand united against its passage.

Representative Babcock's bill to amend the two-cent fare law so that tickets between states shall be sold at that rate, has been killed. This bill would require all railroads to stop their trains at state lines long enough to enable passengers to purchase tickets and check their baggage. By this plan tickets could be purchased to the state line at the 2-cent rate, and another ticket purchased there at the 2-cent rate, and the public would not be forced to pay 2 1/2 cents a mile the entire distance. "This bill would be imposing an unreasonable burden on the railroads," said Frank Littleton, attorney for the Big Four railroad. "By the provisions of this bill the railroad companies in many instances would have to locate railroad stations, where there were no dwellings for miles." It was held that the interstate commerce commission could look after the situation.

"Nothing doing" will be the word at this session of the general assembly in the way of legislation to put all county officials on a straight salary basis, if the intention of the fee and salary committee of the house prevails. The committee, after hearing the protests of several county officials and their representatives, agreed informally that the Seldensticker bill, one of the merchants' platform bills fixing a basis for straight salaries, should not be reported out for several days and perhaps not at all. The session has less than two weeks yet to run.

The committee on fees and salaries will present a divided report on the McGinnis bill to repeal the law providing for in and out fees to sheriffs. The report for passage will be signed by Representatives Wagner, Wise, Kayser, Sweeney and Roggen, and the report for indefinite postponement will be signed by Coble, Greiger and Furnas. Representative Zeigler said he would sign neither report.

The senate has passed Representative McGinnis' anti-stream pollution bill. It is the strongest measure of the kind yet put through in Indiana, and enlarges the powers of the state board of health in dealing with corporations and individuals who dump objectionable matter into running streams.

The King bill increasing the fee charged for issuing commissions to officials in the secretary of state's office, was decided, should be recommended for passage.

The house educational committee has decided to report for passage the McCarty bill passed by the senate providing for medical inspection of school children.

HOUSE TO PASS SHIP SUBSIDY

This Is the Program Set Down For Today.

COMMITTEE IS FAVORABLE

By a Majority of Two, House Committee on Postoffices and Post Roads Reports Favorably Senate Measure Providing For a Subsidy to Mail-Carrying Vessels and Majority in the House Is Prepared to Rush It Through Before Session Adjourns—Brownsville Affair to Go to Court of Inquiry.

Washington, Feb. 24.—Before the close of the sixtieth congress a ship subsidy or ocean mail subsidy law will be enacted by congress, if new plans of house leaders are successful. Today the ocean mail bill, which passed the senate March 20, 1908, will be reported out of the house committee on postoffices and post roads. A canvass of the committee indicated that the vote on this measure will be 10 to 8. Of the twelve Republicans, Representatives Stafford of Wisconsin and Murdock of Kansas will vote with the six Democrats against the bill.

Appropriation bills mainly occupied the house Tuesday. The sundry civil bill was considered, but progress with it was slow. The fortifications, legislative, diplomatic and judicial, diplomatic and consular, and postoffice appropriation bills were sent to conference.

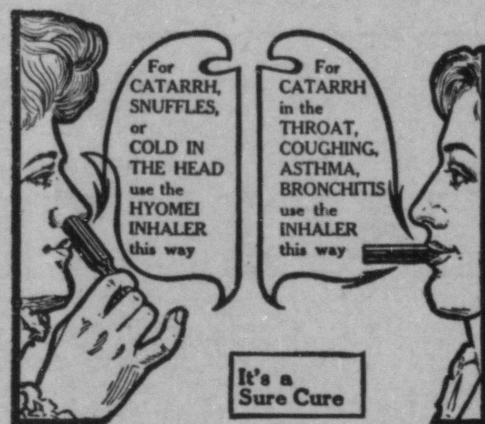

Mr. Clark, Florida, unsuccessfully attempted to secure an investigation by the committee on the judiciary into the writing of the recent letter by Secretary of State Bacon, apologizing for Mr. Rainey's remarks regarding President Obaldia of Panama. Mr. Clark's object being to ascertain if Mr. Bacon's reference to Mr. Rainey constituted an abuse of the privileges of the house.

Doings in the Senate.

The president is authorized to appoint a court of inquiry to determine the qualifications for re-enlistment of discharged negro soldiers of the Twenty-fifth regiment who were accused of shooting up Brownsville, Tex., on the nights of Aug. 13-14, 1906. The Alldrich bill for this purpose was passed by a party vote of 56 to 26, except that Senator Teller voted with the Republicans for the passage of the bill. The bill is a compromise measure approved by President Roosevelt, Senator Foraker and all of the Republican members of the committee on military affairs. The court of inquiry will act as a board to consider applications for re-enlistment and recommend the restoration to duty of such soldiers who are not found guilty of complicity in the affray.

The senate also passed the fortifications bill, with appropriations aggregating $3,320,111, and the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill, carrying $3,646,388.

AMUSEMENTS

The Grand theater has a bill tonight which will keep the audience in a continual roar of laughter. The three subjects, "Choice of Weapons," "How a Mother-in-Law Got Even," and "His First Flight in an Airship," are all comic and present some of the funny incidents that occur in everyday life. Miss Iva Brown will sing, "Whose Little Girlie Are You."

The Vaudelet offers two subjects on their bill tonight that are among the best ever shown in this city. Both pictures are of the highest class and are sure to please the most cosmopolitan audience. Mrs. Blanche Wolverton sings one of the big song hit "Mandy Lane." The titles of the subjects are "Silhouettes" and "The Gallant Gaudemon."

Any company that has an adequate vehicle, a clever farce with good situations and funny lines; that has an intelligent company to interpret same and has a number of first class specialties, will always be welcomed here as a winner. Such was the "Fascinating Widow" show last night; and even more, for the players were far above the class that usually hits the tank towns. C. T. Dazy, who had the stellar role was immense and soon won the hearts of his auditors. He is as good a comedian as is found in the high price theaters in the cities in musical comedies and farces. Every member of the cast was good but those deserving special mention are the widow and the persistent French count. Either one of these two hard working characters could find employment in high class companies. The show will play a return date here in a few weeks and they will no doubt be greeted by a crowded house.
